Hi Heather,
I don't recall if I sent this to you. It is an Alaska state publication describing mining, including exploration activity in the state. It describes all the exploration in Bristol Bay. If you search by mining company you can find all the places where it references each exploration site. I thought it was easier to cite than each web page - all the exploration in one citation. If you find it useful.

Also, an article below states that Millrock and Kinross will be exploring at Humble this summer.
